Christmas Show - November 1970

1970 Countywide Holiday Garden Show Blue Ribbon Winners Announced

winners went to Happy Valley Garden Club Division B of materials, figurines and charts depicting, "What's to do about pollution and litter"; a Gardens of Enchantment progress report with illustrations; and a collection of garden and design books and magazines. Accredited judges for the show were Mrs. A.E. Cox, Mrs. John Rood, Mrs. A.G. Foxworthy, Mrs. Boyd Baldwin, Mrs. Norman Whitely, and Mrs. D.K. Curry.

An arrangement of harvest time -- corn stalks, squash, pumpkins, apples, nuts and other produce -- beside the entrance door heralded the fall and winter holidays and festivities.

A gift shop offered on appealing array of handmade gift items and homemade goodies. Homemade holiday cookies and coffee and tea were served continuously at a table which was covered with white damask and centered with a striking tree-type arrangement of white chrysanthemums and red carnations and dark green laurel leaves. Smaller tables were covered with gaily printed Christmas cloths and centered by arrangements of red candles and evergreens.

winners were For Hills, Thanksgiving Table; Mawukie, Christmas Table; Maplehurst, New Year's Table. Planting begins Saturday at 'five senses' garden

There is more to beauty than seeing.

The Gardens of Enchantment at Oral Hull Foundation for the Blind, near Sandy, makes use where the trees would be planted.

Mrs. Belsher presented the idea of the five senses garden to the district garden clubs and

An underground sprinkler system has been installed.

The weatherman smiled on the garden club women Saturday as they dug in at the work party. Each brought her shovel and several in a husband, along with planting equipment.

Women are: Mrs. Guy, touch garden; Mrs. J.A. Wakefield, taste; Mrs. Robert W. McKay, sight; Mrs. Philip H. Goeckner, fragrance; Mrs. A.H. Wakefield, hearing, and Mrs. Robert Ferguson, birds.

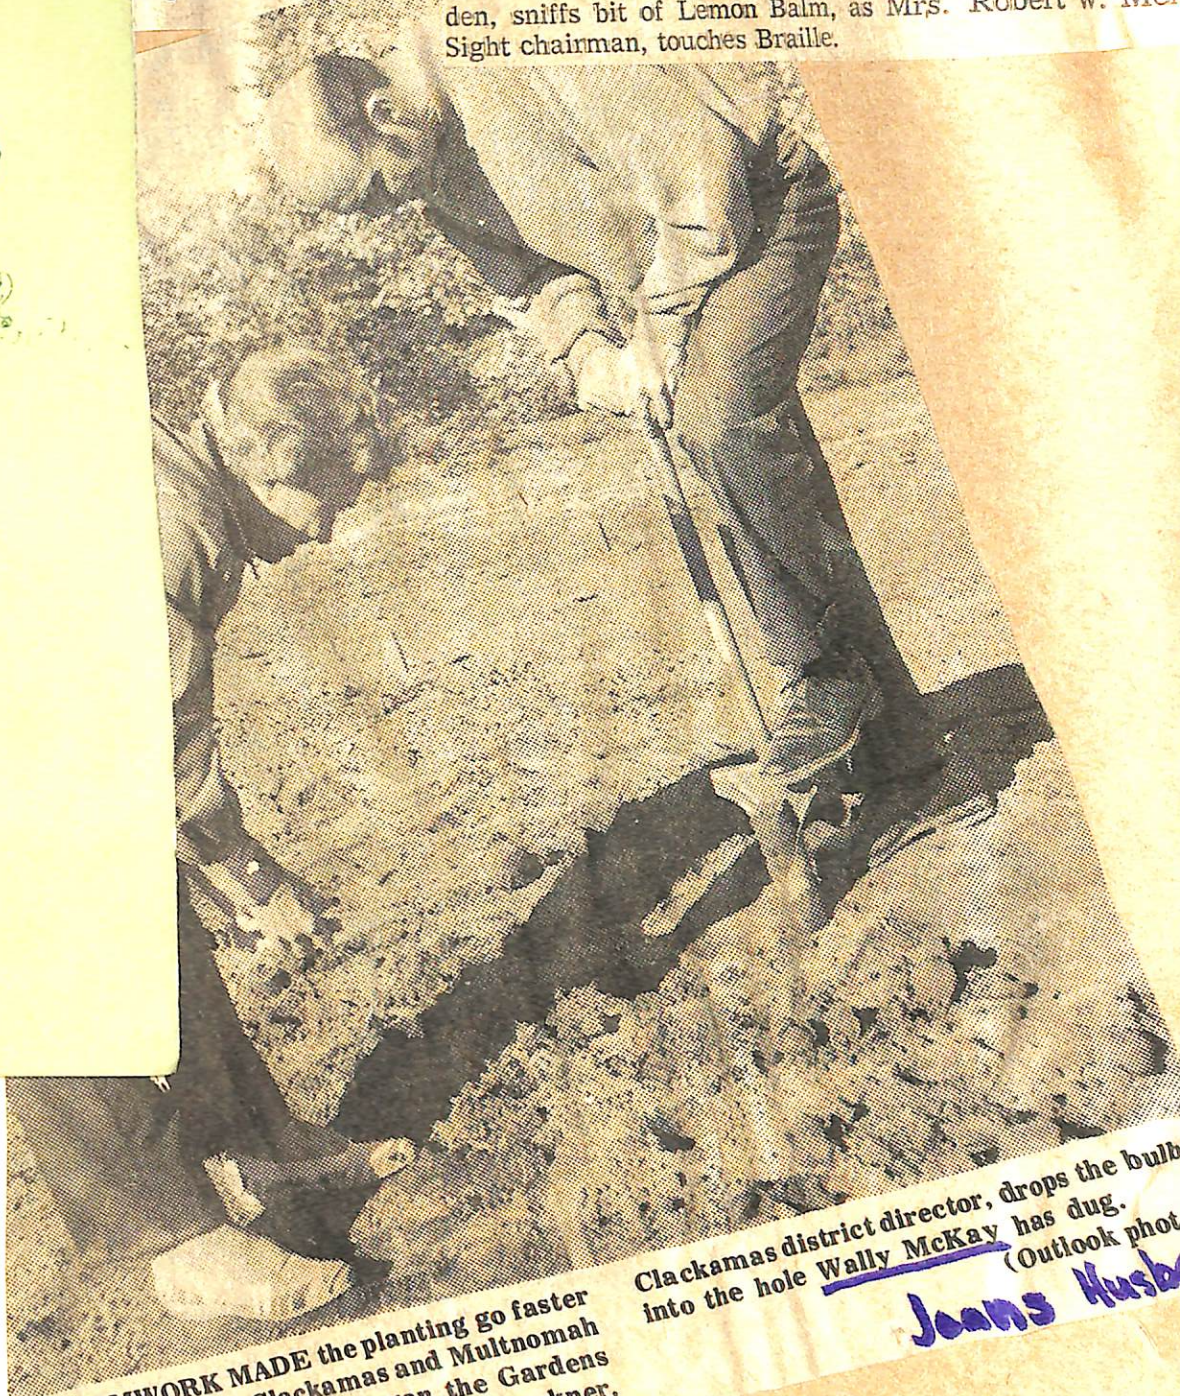

Mrs. Belsher is project manager. Judge Howeller is coordinator for the Oral Hull Foundation for the Blind and represents the Parkrose Garden Club and is a board member of Oral Hull. Mrs. A.H. Wakefield, Clackamas district director, is publicity chairman.

Plans call for the gardens to be dedicated in July. The garden clubs also hope to have the Gardens of Enchantment open for inspection at the Oregon Horticultural Exposition, opening in June.

Happy Valley Garden Club's Set Litter Pickup

Happy Valley Garden Club will sponsor its second "Environmental Day" Wednesday, April 21. Cooperation with the room mothers, parents and other interested community residents, more than 300 Happy Valley Elementary School children will gather in their valley.

The children, equipped with gloves, shovels and rakes, will begin collecting debris along roadsides and in ditches following their noon lunch. Pickup trucks will haul bagged trash to a central location. Sixty teams of children and adults will participate in the project coordinated by principal Gary Salyers.

Happy Valley clean-up due

Happy Valley Garden Club's second annual litter cleanup campaign sponsored by Happy Valley Garden Club will be April 21 from approximately 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.

The children of Happy Valley Grade School will be excused from classes for this activity. Every six children are to be in the charge of a mother. Mothers are being asked to volunteer their services for this activity. Persons wishing to assist are to call Mrs. Jo Hamilton.

Happy Valley Garden Club is also cooperating with other garden clubs in Multnomah and Clackamas counties in the development of the 22 acre Or Hull park for the blind on Sandy River. This foundation was made possible by the bequest which, with the advice of Judge George Howeller was left by Mrs. Oral Hull.

Brian Johnson, left, a student at Milwaukie High School, gives a helping hand to Happy Valley student Darien Martin. The students were picking up litter that had accumulated over the past few years near 147th St. The clean-up campaign was part of Earth Day.

Happy flowers in Happy Valley?

"Famous Happy Valley Events," a flower show, will be Wednesday, Oct. 6, at Happy Valley School, 13865 King Rd. The public is invited to view exhibits from 12:00-4:00 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Happy Valley Garden Club in honor of the school PTANewcomer's Tea, an annual program for all mothers whose children are new to Happy Valley School.

Review

Many visitors enjoyed a flower show held in conjunction with the Newcomers Tea. Members of the Happy Valley Garden Club, friends and children presented exhibits in both horticulture and artistic divisions. Special awards were won by Betty Hoag, for creativity, and Leona MacDonald, for best horticultural exhibit. Jean MacGregor won a blue ribbon with her exhibit of vegetables from her garden. A special conservation exhibit was created by Evelyn Mell and C. Evans.

Many thanks to CB Ross and Nancy Fox for all the time spent in preparing for the tea. Nice to see so many Newcomers and others who haven't seen for quite awhile.

5-Senses Garden Treat For Blind

By ELEANOR BOXX
Journal Staff Writer

"There is no better way to thank God for your sight than by lending a helping hand to someone in the dark."

Helen Keller said it. Bringing life to those words are a group of men and women who created the Gardens of Enchantment at Oral Hull Acres, two and one-half miles east of Sandy.

THE PROJECT, a five senses garden — taste, touch, fragrance, sight and hearing — is a joint venture of Multnomah and Clackamas districts of the Oregon Federation of Garden Clubs and the Oral Hull Foundation.

The garden will be dedicated at 2 p.m., July 11 during the 9th annual Fun Day. Hours of a barbecue will be from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Dedication ceremonies will begin with a flag raising ceremony by Boy Scout Troup No. 329, from Carson, Wash. Keynote speaker will be Larry Espe, a member of Gov. Tom McCall's Liveable Oregon Committee, who will be introduced by Judge George L. Howeller, an unsighted member of Oral Hull Foundation.

The Garden of Enchantment was originated by Mrs. Claire Belsher who heard a report given at the Parkro where she was a guest. The project won her honor of best of Portland's Women of A for 1970.

"The whole thing intrig said. "I went to Oral F campsite for the blind, a with the place."

Happy Valley collects litter

Over 300 students, teachers, mothers and Happy Valley Garden Club members will observe Earth Day Friday by cleaning roadsides and parks.

In groups of eight to ten, the participants will collect refuse in gunny sacks which will be picked up by the Clackamas County road department.

Happy Valley To Clean Up

HAPPY VALLEY — More than 300 students, teachers, and mothers from the Happy Valley School and members of the Happy Valley Garden Club will join forces for a special roadside and park cleanup April 28 during the school's annual observance of Earth Day.

Groups of 8 to 10 persons, each armed with a gunny sack, will be picking up refuse along roads and in parks in the Happy Valley area.

The refuse will be returned to the school and transported to the Clackamas County dump for disposal by county road crews.

SECOND GRADE students at Happy Valley School "clean up" on roadside litter during school's annual observance of Earth Day. Some 350 children, teachers and mothers conducted sweep through countryside, picking up trash along roads and in nearby parks. Dump truck load of trash and litter was collected, transported to Clackamas County dump.

Happy Valley Students Do Bit For Clean World

By CHARLES STEERS
Journal Staff Writer

HAPPY VALLEY — Maybe other communities have litter along streets and roads, but there isn't any in Happy Valley.

And it's all because of the children of Happy Valley School.

Tuesday, the 315 pupils of the school fanned out over Happy Valley in the third annual roadside cleanup project, picking up refuse and litter and depositing sacks along the road to be picked up later by trucks.

After their stint along the roads and streets — and in the parks — they returned to school for their ice-cream "treat."

Mothers of children in school turned out for the project, too, acting as supervisors along with teachers so that each class could be broken up in groups of six or eight students. They also helped with distribution of ice cream and at least one of them was driving a truck, picking up sacks of roadside litter.

There were 35 mothers and 13 junior high school students assisting in the clean-up.

The ice cream was furnished by the City of Happy Valley and the Happy Valley Garden Club made all of the arrangements for the clean-up, including contact with the county for final disposition of the rubbish and providing the sacks.

Gary Salyers, principal of the school, pointed out that the controversial bottle bill seemed to have a big effect on the amount of litter found along the roads.

"The first year we held this cleanup, we picked up seven dump truck loads," he said. "The second year, we picked up three loads and this year we picked up about one and a half loads."

"But this year there were very few bottles and cans. The absence of cans and bottles almost made up the difference between this year and last year," he added. "I think I'll write a letter to Gov. McCall and tell him what the bottle bill has done out here."

A similar drive was carried on Wednesday in West Linn where students fanned out in the community on their annual litter drive as part of the observance of "Earth Day."

HARD AT WORK, these sixth-grade students from Happy Valley School pick up roadside litter along Zinzer Road near the northern city limits. This group was being supervised by Pat Evans, substitute teacher for Mrs. Henry Gilmore and mother of Happy Valley students.

REWARD of ice cream came at the end of litter pickup in Happy Valley Tuesday and is being enjoyed here by John Perman, first-grader in the class taught by Mrs. Audrey Wil-

Happy Valley club garden devoted to the blind

by Lori Rauh
Staff Writer

With tools in hand last week, the Happy Valley Garden Club set out to enhance the beauty of the gardens of Enchantment at the Oral Hull Foundation for the Blind.

The 18-member club visits the gardens every two weeks to weed and cut back plants. The Gardens of Enchantment, or the Five Senses Garden, is located two miles northeast of Sandy on the road to Cherrville.

Garden club members also contribute their time at three general work parties yearly to plant and plow. They work in conjunction with the Clackamas District Garden Club, which has 20 clubs, and the Multnomah District Garden Club, which has 14 clubs.

Happy Valley Garden Club maintains all of the elevated gardens -- "scent" and "taste" areas which are full of herbs. In addition to the elevated gardens, the club is planting a dwarf orchard this season.

The Oral Hull Foundations gardens, once a blackberry patch, were planted four years ago with the help of the various garden clubs. Equipped with seven tapes to guide the blind throughout the garden chimes to lure the auditory senses and both Braille and English signs, the garden has attracted tourists from Washington and as far as New Zealand.

But the most frequent visitors of the Five Senses

A Holiday Flower Show
Wrought by
Clackamas District #15 - Fed. Garden Clubs at
Lot Whitcomb School
7400 S.E. Thompson Rd. - Milwaukie, Oregon

Sweepstake

Entries in the autumn centerpiece category are checked in by clerks Nancy Rounsefell, Mabel Wescott, Harriet Loomis and Virginia Bradbury, all of Damascus' Wildwood Club.

Looking over one of a dozen Christmas trees decorated and entered by local garden clubs are the judges of the annual show. [From left] Dona Donohue and Theresa Dutton of Portland, and Fern Peterson of Longview, Wash. The tree on the right was the entry of the Wildwood Garden Club of Damascus.
